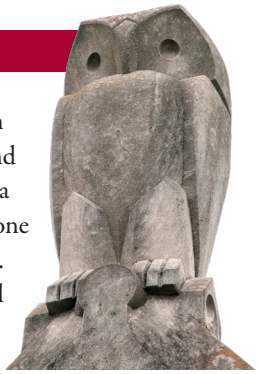
Limestone Owl Scavenger Hunt

Mail completed entries to IGWSinfo@indiana.edu or 1001 E. 10th Street, Bloomington, IN 47405 to be entered for a prize!

Indiana limestone, known to geologists as the Salem Limestone, is quarried in a narrow 30-mile-long band in south-central Indiana that is also home to Indiana University. For more than 100 years, this durable stone has been used to build the IU Bloomington campus. The most common carved figure is the owl, a symbol of learning and education. Can you find all twelve limestone owls on campus?



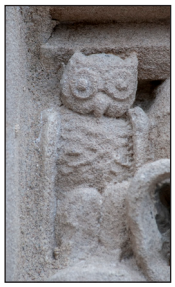
Building Name:

Building Name:

Building Name:

Building Name:

Building Name:



Building Name:

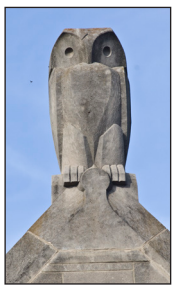
Building Name:

Building Name:

Building Name:

Building Name:

Building Name:



Building Name: